

Economist

Infrastructure Economic and Cost Benefit Analysis Expert

Morrison Low has a reputation for applying outstanding problem solving techniques in complex environments across a range of industry sectors including transport, health, agriculture, environment and government. We provide advice to clients on economic and financial feasibility, business strategy, operation efficiency and regulation.

We are currently seeking an Economist to work on a range of projects involving cost benefit analysis, economic impact analysis, funding submissions, feasibility studies, service reviews and economic development.

The position would suit a candidate with a minimum of two to three years PQE with the required technical skills in cost benefit and economic impact analysis and/or financial analysis for infrastructure related projects. Ideally the appointee can work adaptably across a range of industries and projects requiring high level quantitative and qualitative research and analysis.

Strong conceptual and analytical thinking, well developed time management skills and exceptional report writing skills are prerequisites. Experience in the community infrastructure, transport and infrastructure markets within Australia would be optimal, in particular, the nature and operation of the freight and logistics markets.

You will work for a leading management consulting firm specialising in the local, state and central government sectors in Australia and New Zealand and focus on developing innovative solutions for clients covering a range of business areas.

The successful applicant will be based in Sydney and have the flexibility to work and travel within Australia and New Zealand.

Remuneration will be negotiated based on the successful candidate's experience, background and fit within our current business.

In return we offer a competitive salary, professional development and the opportunity to work within a supportive, friendly team of professionals in modern, open plan offices. Flexibility is an important part of our culture and therefore flexible working options are available.

Does this sound like the opportunity you've been looking for? If so, please apply for this position by submitting your confidential application explaining why you are the best candidate for the position without delay to the Practice Manager (Ref: Consultant SYDECO 1901).

No agencies please.
